> The following note appears in the Pall Mall Gazette:- "You may get Home Rule through Imperial Federation," said a leading Conservative recently, "otherwise you will not get it at all." We incline to the belief expressed long ago by Sir Hercules Robinson that it will come the other way about, and that we shall get Imperial Federation through Home Rule. Which ever way it comes. Home Rulers, from Mr. Gladstone downward, cannot be too zealous in promoting the movement in favour of federating the Empire, and we cannot but regret that no prominent Ministerialist was present at the Royal Colonial Institute yesterday, when Sir George Bowen read the admirable paper, produced elsewhere, on "The Foderation of the British Empire." The plaintiff's brother was called, and he gave evidence of a corroborative character as to the amounts which had been paid, and the balance remaining due. Hamilton, and the other founders of the constitution. We in and organizing public opinion in favour of ciple of first importance which should never be forgotten, viz., that the advance towards federation should proceed primarily from the colonies, and that no change should be made in the existing system without their previous and full consent. While he considered that the creation of a consultative council at the Colonial Office, composed mainly of the Agents General of the self-governing provinces of the Empire -Mr. Forster, and other men of weight and experience had advocated—ought to be established a federation, som what on the lines of the federal systems of Germany and of the United States, would probably become imperative at a future Wo Ahoi, No. 10, West street; and Li Asing, period if the British Empire were to be No. 22, West-street, were summoned by Mr. held together permanently. Colonies sent representatives to the National Legislatures at Paris, Madrid, and Lisbon respectively. England was the only colonizing nation which still excluded her colonists from all voice in the national councils. Such measure as that recommended by Adam Smith would have prevented the separation of the United States in the last century; but it would now [We do not hold ourselves responsible for the opinions have to be medified in form though not in principle for England, Ireland, Scotland, Australasia, Canada, the Cape, and theother chief provinces of the Empire would, each and all, not be content at the present day without local selfgovernment and legislation for their local and local Parliaments in England, Scotland, Ireland, and the several colonies would deal with the tures in America and by the Dists of the several States in Germany. One powerful argument in favour of imperial federation was that the existing House of Commons would thus be relieved from the intelerable and increasing barden of affairs which threatened to break down its machinery. The most obvious remedy would appear to be the division of the work, in the manner suggested, into Imperial and local. existence until death gives relief from suffering. but if the reader will ask himself the following questions he will be able to determine whether he himself is one of the afflicted:-Have I distress, pain, or difficulty in breathing after eating? Is there a dull, heavy feeling, attended by drowsiness? Have the eyes a yellow tinge? Does a thick, sticky mucous gather about the gums and teeth in themornings.accompanied by a disagreeable taste? Is the tongue coated? Is there pain in the sides and back? Is there a fullness about the right side as if the liver were enlarging? Is when rising suddenly from an horizontal position? Are the secretions from the kidneys highly coloured, with a deposit after standing? Does food ferment soon after cating, accompanied by flatulance or belching of gas from the stomach? Is there frequent pulpitation of the heart? These various symptoms may not be present at one time, but they torment the sufferer in turn as the dreadful disease progresses. If the case be one of long standing, there will be a dry, hacking cough, attended after a time by expectoration. In very advanced stages the skin assumes a dirty brownish appearance, and the hands and feet are covered by a cold sticky perspiration. As the liver and kidneys become more and morediseased, rheumatic pains appear, and the usual treatment proves entirely unavailing against the latter agonising disorder. The origin of this malady is indigestion or dyspepsia, and a small quantity of the proper medicine will remove the important that the disease should be promptly China, and Australia. and properly treated in its first stages, when a most effectual remedy for this distressing com- current rates. plaint is "Seigel's Curative Syrup," a vegetable

"East-street Mills, Cambridge-heath, "London, E.C., July 24th, 1882. "Sir,-It gives me great pleasure to be able to add my testimony in favour of your valuable Syrup as a curative agent. I had suffered for some length of time from a severe form of indigestion, and the long train of distressing symptoms following that disease. I had tried all possible means to get relief, by seeking the best medical advice. I had swallowed sufficient of their stuff to float a man-of-war, so to speak, but all to no avail. A friend of mine, coming on the scene in the midst of my sufferings, brought with him a it, stating he felt confident it would benefit me. Being weary of trying so many drugs, I condemned it before trial, thinking it could not possibly do me any good, but ultimately determined to take the Syrup. After doing so for a short ed taking it for nearly two months, and I then Hongkong Gas Company's Shares-$130 per felt thoroughly cured, for I have discontinued its use for five weeks, and feel in the best of health. and can partake any kind of food with ease and comfort.
